SOMETHING BLUE. An elaborate rooftop soirée marked the rehearsal dinner of Elizabeth Marino and Cory Ross. "We wanted to incorporate European influences with the ambience of Beverly Hills," recalls the bride. Black and white photographs taken during the couple's engagements lined the hallway leading to the event, and colonial "E" and "C" topiaries welcomed guests into the cocktail area. Shades of navy and French blue were tied into the décor, paying homage to the bride's favorite color. A bold striped sofa held suspended luminescent glass globes above the dinner seating. Elegant tablescapes consisted of sumptuous arrangements of hydrangeas in shades of blue, cream, and purple; distinctive cobalt blue glassware, and romantic candlelight. A four-course Italian dinner, celebrating Elizabeth's heritage, and gracious toasts from loved ones concluded the sophisticated celebration under the stars.
